Report of the House Committee on Affairs in Utah.

In the Washington Chronicle, of July 25th, we find a report made to the House on the 24th, by the Committee on Territories, on the condition of Utah, from which we make the following extract:

The report represents that the testimony taken before the Committee discloses the fact that the laws of the United States are openly and defiantly violated throughout the Territory, and that an armed force is necessary to preserve the peace and afford security for life and property to the citizens of the United States residing therein. The only witness introduced at the request of the Delegate from Utah admits this necessity for maintaining troops.

The Committee have been unable to adopt the suggestions made by some of the gentlemen examined recommending the substitution of a military government for the territorial government now in existence. They also regret to state that they have been unable to agree upon any plan which seemed to them to promise a practical solution of the abuses and evils complained of and admitted to exist. They do not deem it advisable either to divide the Territory and annex it to Nevada and the Territories adjacent, nor do they favor the establishment of a military government. They have, therefore, been compelled to postpone the further consideration of the matter until December next.

On the 18th of June, Mr. Hooper, the Delegate from Utah, addressed a letter to the chairman of the Committee, in which he denied the statement of some of the witnesses, and asks that no report be made to the House until the people of Utah can be heard in reply to the charges made against them. He also asked for a copy of the testimony already taken, which the Committee declined to furnish him. He subsequently appeared before the Committee and requested that a select committee or a sub-committee from the Committee on Territories be sent to Utah, by the direction of the House, with authority to examine and report on all the allegations made by the witnesses examined, as also on the condition of all classes residing, in the Territory.

The Committee were unable to satisfy themselves that any material facts could be obtained, even if a committee should go to the Territory; they therefore declined to ask the House to make an order, which would necessarily involve a large expenditure of money in sending such a committee to Utah.

Among the witnesses examined was Joseph Smith, the son of the founder of Mormonism, who says that the Book of Mormon explicitly condemns and forbids polygamy, and that this system was not known, acknowledged or held as an article of faith until Brigham Young became the leader of that part of the church that went West with him. Under the presidency of his father the church did not teach hostility to the Government of the United States, nor does it now under his (the witness's) presidency.

In another portion of the report is submitted the copy of the following order, the original of which it is stated was obtained by the military authorities of Utah, of which the Committee says:

As further evidence the witness submitted the following copy of a special order issued by Brigham Young for the murder of eighty innocent men, discharged from General Johnston's command, then at Fort Bridger, Utah, who were en route for California. Fortunately, the officer designated to execute the order was a humane person, and did not execute it, and lately gave the order to a Federal officer in Utah. The signature of James Ferguson is authenticated by the affidavits of two respectable Mormon merchants of Salt Lake City:

SALT LAKE CITY, April 9, 1858.

Special Order.
The officer in command of escort is hereby ordered to see that every man is well prepared with ammunition, and have it ready at the time you see those teamsters a hundred miles from the settlements. President Young advises that they should all be killed to prevent them from returning to Bridger to join our enemies. Every precaution should be taken, and see that not one escapes.

Secrecy is required.

By order of General Dan. H. Wells.

There was no further disturbance of the peace in London. The meeting in Hyde Park for the 30th was called, it is alleged, by consent of the government, but ministers have declared that no such consent was given, and warning the League against holding the meeting. The League determined to hold the meeting. The government assented to its being held at Primrose Hall, declaring that the royal parks should not be used until the question of rights was settled.

The truce expired on the 27th of July, but was prolonged to August 2d, and a four weeks' armistice, commencing from the latter date, was concluded.

It is also announced that peace preliminaries had been signed and reached Vienna for the ratification of the Emperor of Austria. The minor German States were not included in the armistice, and hostilities between them and Prussia continue.

The Bavarians were defeated by the Prussians near Wurzburg.

The suspension of hostilities between

Austria and Italy commenced on the 25th.

Chicago, Aug. 8.
The Evening Post says the news by the Java throws considerable light on the sanguinary aftermath of the Atlantic battle. It will be seen that although Prussia concluded a truce, with an armistice suspended with Austria, hostilities with the minor German States were not suspended. Consequently the Prussians advanced into Bavaria, and fought a battle at Wurzburg, in which the Bavarians were defeated. Here the battle comes again to our help. It announces simultaneously, with the exception of Wurzburg, that the Bavarians have been permitted to enter Hessian City, one of the most important of the old feudal fortresses. It lies on the left bank of the Rhine, undoubtedly in that part of Hesse which is to form part of the new South German Confederation. It is at the mouth of the Main, and at the northeastern extremity of the new Confederation. As it lies directly between the Prussian losses in Bavaria and the Rhine provinces, its occupation is conclusive proof that the war is over—that stupid Bavaria has consented to the terms—and that Prussia is henceforth omnipotent in south as well as north Germany. It is only a question of time as to the gravitation of the still independent southern Catholic States to the northern Protestant power.

The London Times says: With Wurzburg and portions of Baden and Bavaria in his hand, the King of Prussia can afford calmly to await any ventures France may have to make. For the present, Louis Napoleon is well disposed, but let him relax into the very different mood evinced a fortnight ago, and the chance of all Germany springing to arms to resist the mediation of one whose good offices have ever had to be remunerated territorially, will be greater than ever. Even now, when the Prussian armies have penetrated but a very few miles south of the river Main—the line of division between the north and south—a change in the tone of public opinion is very perceptible in Bavaria, Wurzburg and Baden. The more sensible begin to understand that Prussia, being backed by the good will of the whole northern people, is unquestionably stronger than the south and that resistance is useless.

The New York Commercial Advertiser says: The territory south of the Main, consisting for the chief part of Baden and Bavaria, and comprising a population of about eight millions, are German speaking people, and if left to their own option would undoubtedly go, with the majority of their countrymen, under Prussia. Perhaps Count Bismarck foresees this and shapes his policy accordingly. Whatever may be the result of the diplomatic process, it is abundantly evident that they will never more represent the great German or holy Roman empire. The result of the war clearly shows that Prussia, not Austria, represents the Germanic element. The Austrian monarchy, so far as Germany was concerned, turns out to be a mere sham. It had no real foothold or influence, and the rapidity of its fall is only surprising to those who ignored or overlooked the processes that were silently at work—the respectable European conservatism of which Austria was, a representative and champion. She succumbed before far greater influences than Prussian need-guns.

London, Aug. 6.

The King of Prussia has returned to Berlin. The municipality presented to him a congratulatory address. In response, the King expressed his thanks. He pointed out that Prussia had drawn the sword not only for her independence but for the reorganization of Germany.

The first, said the King, has been assured, and the second may, with the help of God, also be obtained. Everything promises a happy future for Prussia, as an honorable and lasting peace is imminent.

The King in person opened the Prussian Chambers yesterday. The following is his speech in full:

Illustrous, Noble and Loyal Gentlemen of both Houses of the Diet:

Now that I see assembled around me the representatives of the country, my heart impels me to express, first of all, from this place, my own and my people's thanks for God's gracious goodness, which has assisted Prussia, amidst heavy but successful sacrifice, not only in averting from our frontiers the dangers of hostility, but enabling the army of the country by victory to add fresh laurels to its inherited fame, but to smooth a course for the national development of Germany, accompanied, by the visible blessing of the God. The part of the nation capable of bearing arms enthusiastically obeyed the summons to the sacred struggle for independence and fatherland. Our heroic army, supported by a few but faithful allies, advanced from success to success, from victory to victory, in the east as in the west. Much precious blood has been shed. The country mourns the loss of many brave men who died heroes in the field of triumph, until our standard waved along a line extending from the Carpathians to the Rhine.

It will be for the Government and the representatives of the people, in united co-operation, to bring to maturity the fruit that must be gathered from this sanguinary seed, and prevent its being scattered in vain.

Loyal gentlemen of both Houses of the Diet, my government is able to look with satisfaction on the financial position of the State. Careful foresight and economy have placed us in a position to overcome the great financial difficulties which have resulted as a natural consequence from the circumstances. At the present time, although national calamity was imposed upon the treasury during recent care by the war with Denmark, it has been found possible to meet the expenses hitherto incurred in the present war from the state revenue and existing balances without imposing any other burden upon the country than that of furnishing supplies in kind for war purposes; that it is bound to provide by law. I hope most assuredly that the means required for the successful termination of the war and the payment of supplies in kind while maintaining order and security in finance, will be readily granted by you, and an agreement could be made with the representatives as to the settlement of the budget, which it has not been able to do during the last few years. The State outlay incurred during this period is therefore destitute of that legal basis which I again acknowledge. The budget can alone reach through the law, by which means the Constitution of '69 ordains that it is annually agreed upon between my Government and the two houses of the Diet, although my Government has, nevertheless, carried on the budget for several years without a legal basis. This has been done after conscientious examination and with correctness, in accordance with the Diet. That the conduct of the administration in the fulfillment of legal obligations to public creditors and officially the maintenance of the army and state establishment were questions vital to the existence of the state, and that the course adopted therefore, became one of those inevitable necessities which in the interest of the country a government must not hesitate to adopt. I trust the recent events will so far contribute to effect an indispensable understanding that an identity for our having carried on the administration without a law for regulating the budget, application for which will be made. The presentations will be granted to my Government, and the hitherto existing conflicts will be thereby finally, and will be more securely brought to a conclusion, as it may be expected that the political position of the fatherland will admit of an extension of the frontier of the state and the establishment of a united federal army under the leadership of Prussia, the costs of which will be borne in equal proportion by all the members of the confederation.

The bills required in this respect, for the convention of a representative federal state, will be laid before the Diet without delay.

Gentlemen—You know that our entire fatherland feels the high importance of the movement that brings me once more among you; may providence bless Prussia as graciously in future as it has visibly blessed the immediate passed; may God grant it.

Prussia has positively declined the proposal of Russia for a congress of the powers which signed the treaty of Vienna.

The following is a special to the New York Herald:

St. Petersburg, Aug. 7.

There is great enthusiasm here in reference to the visit of the American squadron. The Russian fleet have gone to Helgoland to meet it. Some of the principle Russians have subscribed thirty million francs to complete the railroad from Kozler to Moschauzen. The Czar has entered into no arrangement, relative to the question, as yet.

Dresden, Aug. 7.

It is expected that a definite treaty of peace will soon be signed by the Austrian and Prussian plenipotentiaries at Prague. Italy is not included. If the difficulty, relative to the armistice with Italy, is not arranged within a few days hostilities will be renewed.

Florence, Aug. 6.

The Italian and Austrian Generals met at Cormons, in Austria, to negotiate. France takes no part in the pending armistice.

Austria and Italy, if it can be arranged, will hold a separate conference, with the concurrence of France, and it will probably meet at Paris.

A new Italian loan of 350,000,000 livres has been ordered since the signing of the truce.

A part of the Swiss troops, which were guarding the border, have been disbanded.

The cholera is increasing in England.

New York, Aug. 7.

The following is additional by the steamer Boston:

The Prussian Government has made a demand upon the English Government for the treasure packed up and carried off by the King of Hanover and deposited by him in the Bank of England, asserting that he will seize and retain the Hanoverian domain if not given up.

The amount of the loan was 1,250,000 thalers. The Patrie announces that a Mexican army of 50,000, recruited among the Mexicans and officered by Europeans will take the place of the French army, and will maintain Maximilian on the throne.

McCulloch's statement of the national debt causes considerable comment it appears. The total debt on the 1st of August was $2,770,416,608; from which deduct $137,317,332 cost in the Treasury; the cash is divided, coin $61,332,126, currency $75,995,206; the debt includes $18,000,000 of temporary loan and the papers demand the reason why

McCulloch does not pay it.

The six million annual interest of the Brown Brothers and thirty-three other Wall street firms, mainly branches of European houses, unite in a published letter to McCulloch, urging him to sell the coin not needed to meet the interest of the public debt.

New York, Aug. 7.

Total deaths in the city last week was 342, of which 232 were of cholera.

Senator Conness goes to Europe this week, and will be absent three months.

Returns of the Kentucky election of yesterday indicate a majority of over 20,000 for Duval, Clerk of the Court of Appeals over Gen. Hobson. Duval is supported by Pendleton and Valentine, and Hobson by Senators Guthrie and Rousseau.

The steamer General Lythe, mail boat between Cincinnati and Louisville, burst its boilers near Madison, Indiana, yesterday afternoon; 20 persons killed and seventy-eight badly scalded.

Chicago, Aug. 9.

The Illinois Republican State Convention, at Springfield, yesterday, nominated Gen. John A. Logan, for Congress at large, and adopted resolutions endorsing Congress, and recognizing it as the supreme power in the matter of reconstruction.

The Faneuil Hall Convention at Boston, yesterday, appointed Robt. C. Winthrop, Isaac Davis, Geo. Ashman, John Quincy Adams, D. N. Couch and E. C. Bailey among other delegates to the Philadelphia Convention.

The Southern delegates to the Philadelphia Convention, now at Washington, protest against Vallandigham's threatened participation in its proceedings, and say, he has no notoriety, rather than the good of the cause, in view.

The De Young Brothers, printers of the Dramatic Chronicle, have been arrested on two charges of libel, for publishing articles intimating that Maguire, manager of the Opera House, set fire to the United States Court Block, for the purpose of destroying the Metropolitan Theatre.

A warrant has been issued against Turner Cowing for keeping the corpse of his wife in his house, although she had been dead for more than a year.

Advice has been received from the Vega expedition, which crossed the mouth of the Colorado in safety, and is now in San Jose. General John B. Urmy and party were in the expedition, and recruits obtained in California swelled the number to five hundred men, splendidly armed and equipped.

The deaths in San Francisco last week numbered 214.

The official statistics of the loss by the United States Court-house Block fire show that the losses did not exceed $35,000, and only two of the parties were entirely uninsured.

D. Harris, charged with voting twice, was acquitted to-day, the jury finding that the second voting was done while he was intoxicated.

The Union Convention nominated Sam. Brannan for Supervisor of the Third District, and renominated Ashbury for the Fifth.

Indians on the Rampage

(From the Denver News of August 2d.)

Julesburg, August 2.
Reports this morning say that the Indians drove off the Government herd yesterday, from Fort Laramie, and the herd of ranchmen, one mile from the Fort. They have also burned three Forts on Powder River and killed thirty-five men. At Fort Connor twelve men were killed. They have also destroyed several trains in that vicinity and killed a great number of people. Will try and get further particulars.

Living Springs, Aug. 2d.

Passengers on this morning's coach from the east, say a serious affair occurred at Diamond Springs about the time the coach passed that point. Some ranchmen had given a Sioux Indian liquor until he became intoxicated, when he ran his pony through the place shooting at every one in sight. The proprietor of the ranch was seriously wounded. Two other white men were wounded slightly.

The passengers say other Indians are after the one that committed this outrage, and say they will kill him.

We have credible information that a wagon train carrying the wire for the new telegraph line to Salt Lake and California was attacked by Indians some ten days since, near Julesburg. The Indians drew up in a line across the road, and when the wagon train attempted to go round them commenced shooting with their bows and arrows. The train men promptly brought their rifles to bear and the Indians fled addled for the bluffs.

NEW MEXICO.—The work of making explorations for mineral deposits in New Mexico seems to have received a decided impetus from the passage of acts by the Legislature adjusting mining claims, and by the long-continued exertions of ex-Governor Army, who has formed a cabinet of over one thousand specimens of coal, iron, copper, gold, silver, lead, &c., collected in nearly every county in the Territory.

Recently some very important discoveries have been made, in addition to those heretofore credited to ex-Governor Army. Gold has been found near Santa Fe, and a specimen placed in the hands of Gov. Connally; in Rio Arriba county a silver mine has been found which was once worked by the Mexicans, and which has been hidden for years; and near Las Vegas a company have found and are now mining what they report to be a very rich copper lode.

A specimen of the ore, sent us by mail, has been received and amply verifies their report. The country round about these mines embrace the Sandia Mountains and their spurs, and prospects well for other metals, besides copper. Several mining parties, including a company of disbanded California volunteers, are about to go to work, and will soon be able to demonstrate, during the coming summer and fall, whether mining will pay. If their experiments prove successful, New Mexico will soon receive as large an immigration as the papers of the Territory are now so earnestly inviting.
